

Global Climate Change and Emerging Infectious Diseases

International Opportunity in Xiamen, China

Program Dates

Spring Semester 2012
Pre-travel training sessions at SDSU

July 1-15, 2012
Lectures and Field Studies at Xiamen University

Course

SCI 496: Experimental Topics
Earn 3 units of resident credit and fulfill degree requirements for international experience.

Cost

$1,500

- Tuition
- Accommodations

Airfare is not included

For more information contact:
Julie Scalisi: jscalisi@sciences.sdsu.edu
College of Sciences
Or
Amber Rich: arich@mail.sdsu.edu
College of Extended Studies

Study Abroad in China's Cleanest City

Course Topics

- Causes and science of climate change
- Evidence and models of climate change
- Ecological impact of global climate change
- Role of climate change in the development and spread of disease
- Climate change policies and impact in China and the United States

Professors

San Diego State University

Al Sweedler, Environmental Sciences, Physics
Sam Shen, Math
Stanley Maloy, Biology

Xiamen University

Jinjing Luo, Environmental Sciences
Xiao-Kun Zhang, Biology

Students should apply for the Associated Students Study Abroad Scholarship.

Deadline: February 10, 2012
Contact the Scholarship Office for details.

